Biographical / Historical

---

Stephen Jacobs was a member of the University of Maine class of 1944. He served as an infantry officer during World War II and in the National Guard after the War. He compiled and wrote a history of the "Class of 1944", which includes his biography and biographical information on his fellow class members who had served in the military during World War II. Jacobs presented on the results of his research project at the Class of 1944's 50th reunion dinner held on June 3, 1994.

Scope and Contents

The records mainly contain textual information created and compiled by Stephen L. Jacobs during his research project (1988-1994) on the University of Maine class of 1944. Mostly contains individual biographical profiles of members of the class including their service record and lives post World War II, there are also some photographs of specific class members, and cassette recordings of interviews with some of the class. Also, included are a binder of research material complied by Jacobs, reference material, details of his research process, and communications with Fogler Library regarding donating the research material to Special Collections. There are also copies of the project narrative that Jacobs wrote on his research and a floppy disc containing a manuscript of the narrative.
